SU not hurt by SA boycott

by Alex Tindimnubona

The limited boycott of South African products has not hurt business in Students' Union enterprises on campus.

Shirley Kostamo, director of the Information Desk in SUB says her shop is doing well despite the boycott, which only removed Rothmans tobacco products, including Rothmans and Craven 'A' cigarettes.

"Customers either are not asking for the product, or switch to another brand or else go elsewhere and buy it," she said.

The boycott of Rothmans products was passed by students' council last June, in protest against the company's close links with the racist policies of the South African regime.

But although Carling O'Keefe was shown to be controlled by Rothmans, students' council could not ban its beers and wines from SU pubs. The Liquor Control Board apparently requires a "reasonable" stock of brands from all brewers in Alberta.

"Most people are usually not aware of the source of a particular brand," Kostamo said. However, once they know, "they will make their own choices."

In this regard, the students' union has done little follow-up publicity and education on the boycott after passing the motions: A pamphlet explaining the boycott got stuck in the External Affairs Board and never reached the public, according to SU president Cheryl Hume.

Meanwhile, Carling O'Keefe projects the image of a good corporate citizen, by supporting sports, the arts and other community events, Hume said. On campus it has supported the fraternities and other groups in their events.

Response to UPC report approved

Council rejects abortion rights group

Kent Blinston

Students' council decided to endorse the International Campaign for Abortion Rights at their meeting Tuesday evening.

They did approve the students' Union response to the University Priorities Report and fully several grants.

The abortion rights debate started with an administration board recommendation to endorse ICAR. Wendy Vandersteen, representing the Edmonton Women's Coalition, said the campaign started at the European Feminist conference held in France in 1977. Their actions culminated in an international day of action planned for March 14 this year.

Growing restriction of abortion rights and forced sterilization are real problems around the world, according to Vandersteen. In Canada, abortion is under the criminal code and generally more accessible to healthy women because they do not money."

VP academic, Mike Ekelund said students' council should not even be discussing the issue. "On my own religious and moral grounds I cannot support abortion. I do not think students' council has the right to do so," he said. He also read a letter from student advocate Greg Schmidt who compared abortion to capital punishment and said the right to life could not be legislated.

Arts rep Harvey Groberman said there were two issues to debate; whether council supported abortion and whether they had the right to endorse any position. He said the issue was important to students and that council should take a stand on it.

Alan Fenna, another arts rep, added that the campaign was concerned with women's rights in general not just abortion. Vandersteen agreed and said it should not be made into "a moral, ethical issue." She asked Ekelund if he thought a woman's right to control her body was subordinate to the right to life.

"A woman's choice is made before the abortion," was Ekelund's response.

Engineering rep Rhon Rose pressed Vandersteen on the point of subsidizing abortions for the poor. He objected to that saying, "A woman should not have the right to use my money for something I'm very much opposed to." He concluded saying the issue was too emotional for council to decide.

VP internal Kaysi Eastlick and education rep. Robert Patzward both proposed the issue be reconsidered after consulting the faculty associations. Neither amendment was passed. The motion was defeated on a roll call vote; six for, eight against, seven abstentions.

The response to the University Priorities Report was quickly approved after two additions by science rep Steve Cumming. He asked that research funds be given high priority and that administration cuts be considered when general salary cuts are proposed.

COUNCIL NOTES

During reports, education rep Duncan McGregor said he removed a motion from the agenda of the January 30 council meeting after pressure from president Cheryl Hume and FAS executive officer Brian Mason. He said that on the afternoon before the meeting, Hume and Mason told him they thought his motion, proposing a referendum to raise SU fees for certain faculties now paying less than standard, would hurt the chances of the NUS referendum. Hume would remove the motion for a NUS referendum from the agenda, according to McGregor, unless he removed his motion.

McGregor said he disagreed and that perhaps Mason had overstepped his bounds.

Hume said Mason was not acting on behalf of FAS but that he was there because of his experience with referenda.

Mason later responded by saying he still felt it would have been a mistake to put two money referenda before the students, and said so.

Wayne Fotty was ratified as the new director of Freshman Orientation Seminars after some discussion of the selection process. Eastlick assured councillors that the ratification was mostly a courtesy, and it passed 10-5.

Student groups get last minute reprieve

Most of the student groups scheduled to be evacuated from the sixth floor of SUB this weekend have been given a reprieve.

The university has agreed to allow the clubs occupying rooms 601 to 612 to remain until the end of this term, according to vp internal Kaysi Eastlick. In addition, the organizers of Varsity Weekend will be allowed to stay in room 602A until that weekend takes place next month.

Only room 602, presently occupied by the Outdoors Club and the Wargames Club, will be taken over immediately by the university which owns half of the sixth floor. The Department of Civil Engineering is scheduled to move into room 602 in the near future.

The Outdoors Clubs has already been allotted space in room 604, according to Eastlick, and new space will likely be found soon for the Wargames people.

Eastlick readily admitted, however, that the SU is no closer to regaining full control of sixth floor space.

"Unless the students' union negotiates and signs a rental agreement or we're willing to make other concessions to compensate for the use of that space, the university will make use of it," she said.

Aiming for the big leagues

Ekelund off and running

by Tom Barrett

The Vice-President Academic of the Students' Union will be running as a Social Credit candidate in the constituency of Norwood in the upcoming Provincial election.

Mike Ekelund has been a Social Credit member for several years, and in November, 1978 took on the Party Youth Vice-Presidency before tossing his hat in the ring for this election.

Ekelund expressed concern about:

"The centralization of power in the provincial cabinet and the inability of backbenchers to represent their constituencies when it is not in the interest of the premier to do so."

"Government intervention and competition in people's lives and businesses must be decreased," said Ekelund. "It is there to serve the people, not restrict them," he added.

When asked what effect the campaign will have on his ability to carry out his duties as a member of the council executive, Ekelund replied:

"There will be a change in my office hours. I won't be coming in on Tuesday's, but during the rest of the week I'll be continuing my regular hours and attending all regular meetings."

"The campaigning will be done in the evenings and most campaign business will be handled on Tuesdays. It looks like I won't get much sleep for the next month. I know some people will jump on this so I'm asking that I not be paid for the upcoming month. After the election I will go to Council, however, and ask for my salary if they are all satisfied I have done a satisfactory job. If even one councillor objects I'll forfeit the money."

"If I spent all my time organizing demonstrations and making demands on the government I would probably be considered a hero of the student movement. But by realistically attempting to change the government by working for the party of my choice, I will probably draw only a negative reaction from certain student leaders," he said.

The election will be held on March 14.

Come and get these prizes

Are you a hardworking and diligent student? If you are, have you applied for a Students' Union award?

This year, four awards and a scholarship are available from the Students' Union. Applications for these awards—the Students' Union Gold medal, the Bishop's University exchange, the Lorne Calhoun award, the Maimie Shaw Simpson award and the Walter Dinwoodie award—are now available at SU offices.

The most prestigious of these is the gold medal, available to graduating students who have shown excellence in academic and extracurricular activities. The deadline for application is March 7, and nomination forms can be obtained through the Students' Union office.

The Bishop's University exchange is co-sponsored by the Students' Union and the University. This prize includes tuition and fees for one year at Bishop's University, an English speaking liberal arts college in Lennoxville, Quebec. The deadline for applications for the exchange is March 2.

The Lorne Calhoun award is a $25 book prize for students who participate in Students' Union and extra-curricular activities. Calhoun was a student at the U of A from 1946 until his death in 1951, and the award commemorates his many contributions to campus life.

Maimie Shaw Simpson was the first Dean of Women at the U of A, and the award in her memory is open to any female student participating in a variety of campus activities, with at least a second class academic standing.

The final award, the Walter Dinwoodie award, is a $100 prize presented to a student in an undergraduate program planning on returning full time the following year. Dinwoodie was the Permanent Business Manager of the Students' Union from 1949 until 1962, and the prize recognizes his work with the Students' Union.

The deadline for the three memorial awards is March 19.

Further information on all these awards can be obtained by the Students' Union offices.

Soviet dissident to speak Friday

Soviet dissident Simas Kudirka will speak at 11:00 am Friday, in Education North 205. There will be a coffee session with him that afternoon from 2:30 to 5 in room 227, Athabasca Hall.

Kudirka jumped from a Soviet fishing ship to a U.S. Coast Guard vessel in November 1970. He was denied political asylum by a Rear Admiral of the Coast Guard, who was anxious not to have talks on fishing rights with the North Atlantic disrupted.

Kudirka was returned to his ship, and once in the Soviet Union was tried and convicted of treason. He spent the next three and a half years in various prison camps in the Soviet Union.

During this time, two Lithuanian-born women in the United States were pressuring the State Department to intervene. They met with no success until it was by chance discovered that Kudirka's mother was an American citizen. In 1974, Kudirka's U.S. citizenship was declared, and he was allowed to emigrate in August of 1974, with his family.

The forum is jointly sponsored by the Department of Eastern European and Slavic studies, the Central and Eastern European studies Society of Alberta, and the Lithuanian-Canadian Community of Canada.

Pharmacy program hurt by cutbacks

This article is the first in a series focusing on the problems caused by cutbacks in funding at the University of Alberta. The idea was developed by the Committee to Oppose Tuition Increases and Cutbacks (COTIAC); the articles were written for the Gateway by COTIAC members.

COTIAC will be speaking to department heads and faculty heads throughout the campus to study the effect of the cutbacks given to the university last year, and to project the effects further funding cutbacks will have.

Marianne Olszewski Pharmacy 4

The Faculty of Pharmacy, like other faculties, has been adversely affected by recently imposed cutbacks. Although there has been a 6% increase in the operating budget for the '78-'79 term, this increase is slight in view of the estimated 15% increase in cost of operation for the same period. To compensate for this difference, cutbacks in programming and staffing have been made.

Graduate students are essential to the undergraduate teaching program. During the last ten years, the number of grad students supported by the faculty has fallen from 22 to 11 students, due to a lack of funding. A further decrease in this number is expected. Besides affecting the research activities of the faculty, this has made the student/TA ratio much larger, and consequently the quality of lab instruction has not been maintained. In addition, six new grad students have been tentatively accepted for next year, however at

by Amanda LeRougetel

Social Credit is a peoples party, said Dr. Walter Buck, environmental critic for social credit in an interview on Monday.

He stressed the need for a government which truly represents the people and said the philosophy of the Social Credit party is that the "people are more important than the party." Democracy operates on the local level, said Buck, and it is important that the people have the opportunity to influence the decisions made by the government.

Dr. Buck has been the MLA for Fort Saskatchewan since 1967 and was backbencher for the government for four years (1967-71).

Calling himself a "realistic conservationist," Buck believes the establishment of the Environmental Conservation Authority (ECA) was one of the best acts passed in the legislature in 1970.

He said the ECA represented a genuine effort to establish an independent agency in which ordinary citizens could voice their opinions. However, the PC government disregarded the ECA's advice on the placing of the Red River Dam and disbanded the ECA in late 1977.

The government set up a new authority (called the Environment Council of Alberta), which is more involved in business than Dr. Buck thinks an agency of this type should be. No reasons were given by the government for the disbandment of the original ECA.

A forum on Alberta's environment is being sponsored by the SU and the U of A Socreds. Dr. Buck and Julian Kinisky, former chairman of the ECA, will be among the speakers. With the election coming up, Dr. Buck feels it is necessary for students to be informed about the important environmental issues.

Buck said he believes the students of today are the leaders of tomorrow and must therefore know the issues and become involved. The forum is to be held Wednesday, February 21 at noon in SUB theatre.

Restraint still needed

Berger defends pipeline inquiry

by Portia Priegert

The MacKenzie Valley Inquiry was an important precedent in Canadian resource exploitation and has laid the foundation for a firm policy of northern development, said Mr.

Justice Thomas R. Berger last Sunday.

Berger, former Commissioner of the MacKenzie Valley Pipeline Inquiry, was presenting the Third Annual Wolfe Memorial Lecture at Athabasca University, titled, "Canadian Peoples: Canadian Problems".

"The Inquiry was the first time the impact of a large-scale frontier development project was considered before, rather than after the fact," said Berger. It has attracted widespread support and has increased our understanding of the special vulnerability of the North."

In his report, issued May 1977, Berger recommended that no pipeline be built for the transportation of Alaskan gas across the Northern Yukon and that measures be taken for the protection of wilderness areas and wildlife. In order to settle native claims, he also proposed that construction of a pipeline along the MacKenzie Valley be postponed for ten years.

Berger said that we have never had to use restraint in developing natural resources before. However, he stressed that he is not advocating that we "return to Nature" or "shut off the north."

"Wilderness is an invaluable part of modern day life that compliments our civilization, but wilderness is a non-renewable resource. If we are to preserve it we must do it now," he said.

He also recommended energy conservation as part of the solution to global resource problems. "We shall have to get along with a smaller amount of energy in future."

editorial

It is laudable that Mike Ekelund's public spirit has moved him to accept the Social Credit nomination for Edmonton Norwood. However, fulfilling the mandate of the party will compromise his prior commitment to the Students' Union. I urge him to reconsider his present situation.

Last year Ekelund campaigned vigorously for the position of VP academic and won, despite a rider in his election platform exempting him from two months office. It was clearly stated during the election that he had made plans for May and June of 1978 and had no intention of giving them up if elected. Fine; the students knew he'd be gone and accepted him anyway.

However, the implicit assumption was that upon his return Ekelund would make up for lost time in his vital academic portfolio. As VP Academic Mike is a member of a number of committees and boards, all of which met regularly over the summer. As well, the first months in office are recognized as crucial to the smooth functioning of the SU exec and Students' Council. It is safe to say, then that Ekelund's first absence was noticed.

On that basis alone, Ekelund owes students the balance of his term. On Wednesday he promised to make his salary for the election period contingent on unanimous Council approval. It is a noble, but empty, gesture. The issue here is not money, it is responsibility. And complicated by a lack of viable alternatives.

In late February, even if he does resign, there is no chance of finding an adequate replacement for Ekelund as VP Academic. So, he will retain his SU position because, simply, we have him or no one. And Ekelund willingly admits that his effectiveness during this time will be drastically affected. In the end there is no option available to ensure that the students' academic interests are maintained for the rest of this year.

Mike has argued that his involvement in provincial politics is as important as "organizing demonstrations and making demands of the government" because it is a direct effort to change the problematic Lougheed government. But any gains made by Ekelund and the Socreds on behalf of students will almost certainly be countered by losses on campus due to his absence.

It's a fact that Mike will miss a lot while campaigning. He has glibly stated that he won't be getting much sleep in the next month. Provincial election or no it seems that cleaning up his duties as VP Academic alone would have cut significantly into his remaining time. And remember, Ekelund is still, although barely, a student.

The final objection should properly come from the Social Credit party itself. I don't think the SC realizes the extent of Ekelund's commitments to the SU. Otherwise it would find his nomination inappropriate, if not objectionable. After all, the party's image among students will be damaged as much as enhanced by Mike's untimely exit from student politics.

It is unfortunate that the provincial election has been called now, in the middle of a school term. And while I do wish Mike well in his political career outside of the U of A, in view of the circumstances he is wrong to leave now, for any amount of time. Therefore I must reserve my encouragement for a subsequent election.

Apathy: yours for $35.50 a year

On Friday, February 9, 1979, a new Students' Union executive was elected by the 25% of the students who saw fit to vote. This is appalling! Are there no students interested in where their Students' Union fees go? Do they suppose that the fees are simply dumped into a pot which is snatched from their hands to further someone else's interests? Are there no students who care what happens to their services on campus that are provided for by the students union services? Where are those students who used to care about life on campus and life in general? Have the 25% of us who voted become the only people on campus who've decided that to live one must be involved and care about who makes the policy that must inevitably affect us all?

Well, to those of you who voted, I say 'Thank You; and to those who didn't I say 'Why? You may have changed what you perceive as wrong with the way things are now' and 'Don't you dare gripe about the way things are being handled later on in the year, for when you had your chance to change it and make things the way you wanted them but you didn't take the chance.

Finally, my congratulations to the elected executive. May you have a good and productive year in office, even with such a slim percent of the student population supporting you. At least you managed to get that slim percent to support you. Have a good year and good luck!

Secret spoiled

I am sorry to say that I made the error of voting in Friday's election. Sorry because I found the balloting procedures as ridiculous as some of the candidates' platforms.

The problem was this: after filling in my preferential ballot, I refolded it and gave it to the staff at the balloting station, in my case in the Rutherford Galleria. The staff proceeded to open my ballot and examine it! I have voted in SU elections using the preferential ballot before but I have never seen this before. I asked what they were doing. Making sure you filled in the form correctly was the reply. I then looked at the ballot box. It was full. Completed ballots were piled high beside it.

Notwithstanding the fact that some of the electorate deliberately spoil a ballot, for whatever reason, it is absurd that the Returning Officer cannot adhere to the time-honored procedures of the secret ballot. We are, most of us, adults here and I would think we know how to vote. After this fiasco, however, I would wonder why we vote (those few of us who do, and the number will become smaller if this continues).

I would ask that you take this issue up with the DIE board for a ruling. I would think that another election is in order, one administered by a reasonable returning officer.

Res problems need constructive criticism

In response to the letter perpetrated upon the Gateway Feb. 6 by six scientists I would like the opportunity to point out contradictions and fallacies in their arguments.

To begin with, the purpose of Ms. Brown's proposals is not to protect the rights of students. Rather, it is a basic right of people to control their own destiny and the proposals do not provide for the financial autonomy necessary for independence. Neither do our counter-proposals reflect a desire to "tenaciously hang onto the prevailing social order (we) have so effectively cultivated." We realize changes are necessary and are attempting to implement them. Regarding criteria for seniors, alcoholic tendencies do not figure in their selection, stereophonic capabilities are not considered and they must be full-time students which necessitates a longer than six hour school week. As for a GPA of four, this is a minimum, not a maximum, standard and does not purport to exclude students with a higher average. Actual criteria include organizational capabilities, a sense of responsibility and utility to the floor members they serve.

In a more personal vein, I resent being included in the supposed "fair proportion" of "rednecks", "non-academics" and general mental midgets you claim composes student government in Lister Hall. I am not a self-claimed expert in Freudian psychology so I will ignore your remarks in this area and will trust your expertise in this sort of simple medical matter. Obviously you are much better at unbiased analysis than I.

Some form of organization is needed in an institution of twelve hundred people to retain a sense of order and I am proud to be a member of a student government which caters to this need. And personally I am sick of taking "anal expulsion" from laboratory philosophers who are happy to criticize without doing a damn constructive thing to improve their situation.

By the way, was the Med Show an academic success?

What kind of woman buys prophylactics? Me, I guess. I read the ad. I saw the slick delivery. Those beautiful models with the new fashions and sophisticated expressions. Today's kind of woman. That's all right. Sure, I'm more concerned and aware of my body than ever before. I do think that birth control is an up-front issue now, and that there's nothing slutty or tacky about informing women of a better method. And I think that any businessman who presents all the facts in a mature and direct manner has got me sold. In fact, I bought a whole case of 'em, which brings me to my point. . . . Okay Mister Smart Guy, just how do those things work!?! I mean, it's like you've got no idea of basic female anatomy! Where do they go? How do they stay on? Look, I've got ribbed ones and lubricated ones; I've got your flaming pink and your emerald green ones and I'm still filling my house with kids! I've tried them up here and down there but there's no belts or pins! And I've got to go through this twenty-one times a month without forgetting? I couldn't swallow one on a bet. Elastic morality

I speak with regard to Ross Smillie's "chic" letter of the 13th. Mr. Smillie's "morality... based on laws of human nature and relationships that can never change" implies a static universe and a static man. This I find objectionable. On the contrary, seems that man's mental and physical attributes, as well as his circumstances, change constantly. Morality, which is something acceptable behavior based on these realities, is thus likely to change correspondingly. An inherited "code of morality" can inhibit this change and consequently be harmful; a state of "floating" morality permits morality to be formed by current reality. Present attitudes towards sex approach this state. The prophylactic ad is an example of the beneficial effect of present flexibility. It is a humorous part of the ongoing elimination of a sexual stereotype (that is, that women do not enjoy sex) that, one hundred years ago, was part of a "code of morality." As such, the ad did not in the least distress me. (Birthright ads do, on the other hand.) I remind Mr. Smillie that the ad did not suggest even remotely that the product should be used outside of marriage. Finally, it is fact that men and women have, in every society in every age since man became man, partaken in non-marital sexual relations. It is fact that many of these men and women have had to "pay-later" for their actions. And it is fact that more of these men and women have suffered from the feelings of guilt associated with violating a "code of morality" and from the persecution of an intolerant society, than have suffered because of any harm done independently by their actions to their bodies or minds. Let's show a little tolerance!

Obvious conclusion for housing study

So the university is launching a study to determine what to do about its student housing problems (Gateway, January 30, page one). According to Dana Roman's article, part of the problem is that, while there is a year waiting list to get into North Garneau, Lister Hall and Pembina Hall currently have a 100% vacancy rate. It is not surprising that most students would rather live in a classy old North Garneau house than a sterile cubicle in a modern high-rise. What is surprising is that, despite these figures, the university persists in its policy of systematically evicting North Garneau residents and converting their houses into offices. "At least three more houses this spring," is the privately stated conviction of one university official. And they will likely be the last three houses still used as student residences on Saskatchewan Drive between 110 and 111 streets. Lacking the economic justification — not to mention the gumption to face public protests — to simply level North Garneau and erect yet another modern glass-and-steel monstrosity, the university has found a quieter method of "academic expansion." The solution to the university's housing problem seems simple: instead of converting the much-in-demand Garneau houses into offices, why not use the already vacant space in Lister and Pembina Halls? Such a move would not only ameliorate the vacancy rate in the residences, but help as well to conserve the student housing capacity of North Garneau, an area where vacancy rates are unheard of. It could very well be that the university's presumably high-priced "four-phase study" will ultimately recommend something along these lines. In any case, further action by the university in the student housing area (such as converting more North Garneau houses) should be suspended until the advisory committee makes its report.

Puffing in peace denied demon smoker

This letter is to be forwarded to those responsible for the gross indecencies in Rutherford South, but not before it is read by the "little green men" (who patrol the aisles of Rutherford South looking for the "demon smoker") and also Ms. Donnelly, crusader for the rights of non-smokers. Well, people, smokers have their rights too! Ms. Donnelly feels that smokers should be relegated either to the Ho Chi Min Trail passageway between HUB and Rutherford North) or to the great outdoors." Obviously some people haven't noticed this is February, not July, and it's not actually the Bahamas out there. A recent Statistics Canada survey showed that the smoking of a cigarette takes between three and five minutes (slightly longer for king size). Standing outside for this period of time would likely qualify the participant as a contestant for next year's ice statues contest in Quad. Talk about cruel and inconsiderate! True, cigarette smoke to the asthmatic non-smoker can be a bit unsettling, but Rutherford South, with its 25 ft. ceiling, is not a broom closet where everyone dies of asphyxiation at the striking of the match; smoke tends to dissipate rather quickly. Most of my fellow non-smokers are not that selfish that we deny the addicts their periodic nicotine injection, for we all have our idiosyncracies and habits that others considerably put up with. The "twit" in Ms. Donnelly's article is probably not one of her fellow freshmen, and remembers that only a short time ago smoking was permitted in the study hall, and there

IT'S JUST A FUN THING, DON'T YOU KNOW!!

The hunt for Bert Hohol's replacement is over. The Sun has learned that Prince Peter desires a moderate man for the job. Someone with a social conscience who is respected by the press. It seems nobody in Alberta met these requirements, so the Tories went to our sister province to the west and made a trade for Bill Vander Zalm. It isn't as bad as it seems. Alberta gave up Horst Schmidt and the draft rights to Jay Spark. By the way, Cheryl Hume's pet fly is in hiding.

WHAT'S THE NUS FUSS?

Our friends from NUS aren't taking defeat lying down. They figure if the U of A won't join NUS, then NUS will join the U of A. U of A field worker Stacey Kushlick is presently visiting NUS campuses providing unbiased information on the U of A. Ontario NUSies are very concerned that the U of A is western dominated. Kushlick describes the statement as "patently absurd" and points out that everyone who joins U of A and pays his or her fee gets one vote. Mr. (or Ms, take your pick) Kushlick has pushed the services of U of A's affiliate, the Alberta government.

Kushlick points to such things as PWA, Alberta Energy and Syncrude, not to mention roads, parks and utilities. Lethbridge NUSies seem sold on this argument. However, the anti-U of A committee has pointed out that U of A is overly right-wing and in the midst of reorganizing its structure. They point to page 466 of the GFC handbook which advocates boycotting Red Chinese products and is against abortion and cottage cheese. The pro-U of A group call these tactics "blue-baiting." Posters on both sides tell the story. The anti-U of A poster reads "U of A is not OK" and the pro-U of A posters proclaim "U of A, Vote YES - a nice idea." If you think you can predict the final outcome send $2 to Gateway. If you guessed 42%, sorry, Alan Fenna has that taken.

A RATHER LARGE BILL

City council's three year salute to P.T. Barnum continues. Recently they went on a "retreat" to Jasper. The main opponent to the plan, Alderman Chmiliar, contended that the seminar was a waste of money. Well, Mayor Cec Purves changed Battle Bill's opinion by convincing him that city council was actually going "on Manoeuvre". Despite Chmiliar's faults, he has never shirked his duty when a call to arms is sounded. City council was impressed. Percy Wickman was speechless when Battle Bill had Percy's wheelchair armor plated, with a revolving turret. Battle Bill won Alderman Leger over by promoting him to corporal and pointing toward the Polish frontier. Field Marshall Purves (who is also company chaplain) said the battle over revenue sharing won't be won until the city has an air force equal to Peter Lougheed's PWA. On the civic boundary issue Purves was emphatic in demanding more "living space". Asked about how much progress was made, Chmiliar reported that they had secured Lake Annette and were preparing to march on Marmot Basin. How much of Jasper National Park will the aldermen occupy? According to Alan Fenna, about 42%.

A QUICK U-TURN

Noted CITV Libertarian Brian Tracy has made a rather quick change of opinion on the ten o'clock curfew by-law. According to Tracy, any self-respecting juvenile should be off the streets and inside, preferably watching CITV's Ten O'clock News. The kids have not only pointed out that such would violate the Geneva Convention, but have also threatened to have Tracy's subscription to Captain Marvel comics cancelled.

the existing regulations. A policy statement would be greatly appreciated, however, I personally regard the second alternative as being the only one equitable for all.

The only things missing are the commercials

Maybe next time for Alda

The Same Time Next Year
Directed by Robert Mulligan
Movie review by Dave Samuel

The Same Time Next Year might turn up some time next year as a TV sitcom. It's the story of two happily married people who meet one another once a year at the same time and place to commit adultery. They manage to turn it into an activity about as sexually charged as a night out bowling or playing bingo.

The Same Time Next Year would adapt well to TV because, although there is just a hint of pasteurized, prepackaged, denatured titillation, it should be totally safe for viewing by maiden aunts in Dead Dog, Texas or Three Hills, Alberta. You could keep adulterer Alan Alda in his present role and replace adulteress Ellen Burstyn with someone more suited to TV - a Sally Fields type. As a TV show it could hop on the nostalgia bandwagon in a big way. As the pair meet for their dose of plastic sin they move through every era from post-War to early seventies. It wouldn't matter that the representations of the dress and ideas of each period are ridiculously shallow because the legendary twelve-year-old mentality of the viewer would be confused by anything more complex. The show's profusion of one-liners would transfer well too, and there is no overriding theme to get in the way and be broken up by commercials.

As a movie, however, The Same Time Next Year is an excruciating bore. It's virtually a filmed play, with no adaptation to the big screen. The camera must have been bolted to the floor. There's an irritating soft focus throughout which could have been intended for romantic effect, or to hide Ellen Burstyn's wrinkles.

The acting is so abysmal that it deserves special attention. Since the camera is focussed on the two principals for the entire film, it's easy to see where a great deal is demanded from them. Frankly I suspect that if one could have thrown Marlene Dietrich and Marlon Brando together in their respective primes they would have had trouble with this one.

With Alan Alda there's no chance of him being able to carry it off. He's as sexless as a overgrown boy scout, so there's no aura of sexual attraction between him and Burstyn, and there's something adolescent about his demeanor all through the picture. Every line is a wisecrack. Alda seems incapable of simulating the changes of gesture and carriage that go with aging. Seeing him in The Same Time Next Year it is hard to believe that he has any acting skills at all.

Ellen Burstyn is better than Alda, partly because she doesn't overplay her role to the same degree. She has acted well enough in other roles that I can forgive, and hopefully forget, this one.

It seems obvious then, that rather than miss a night of Mork and Mindy or Laverne and Shirley the canny viewer should remain planted in his living room and wait for The Same Time Next Year to come to him, as it or its imitators certainly will.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

KNOW HOW IMMIGRATION LAWS AFFECT YOU

Under Canada's new Immigration Act, international students wishing to study in Canada must, in most cases, obtain visas and authorizations abroad before coming to Canada.* And they must also have an acceptance from a university, college or other institute of learning and be able to prove that they have enough money to support themselves in Canada while studying.

Once in Canada international students may not change schools or courses without first applying for an amended authorization. And although visiting students and their dependents may apply for work in Canada, they must obtain an employment authorization before accepting employment.

Students whose studies will continue beyond their authorized period must apply for an extension before their original authorization expires.

Any violation of these requirements could result in your having to leave Canada.

So if your course of study runs longer than the time specified, or you plan to change your course or institution, or you want to accept employment of any kind, contact your nearest Canada Immigration Centre without delay.

In Edmonton your Immigration Centre is located at 10506 Jasper Avenue, telephone 425-7865.

*Citizens and permanent residents of the United States and permanent residents of Greenland, St. Pierre and Miquelon may apply for authorizations at a Canadian port of entry, providing they already have a letter of acceptance from a Canadian school. However, because of the complexity of their cases, students from these four regions who will be staying in Canada for more than one year are advised to apply for authorizations at a Canadian government office in the country where they live rather than at a port of entry.

Bears, Pandas ready for Canada West track final

John Stewart

According to Gabor Simonyi, head coach of the U of A track team, "unless there are injuries and illness at the last minute we should be there, in contention." There is at the Field House, Friday and Saturday evenings (this weekend). 'In contention' is for the Canada West University Athletic Association (CWUAA) and field title.

"We hope we'll win," continues Simonyi, adding that you never underestimate the opposition. That's one of the mistakes anyone can make. However, Simonyi has confidence in the members of his team, stating that "everybody on the team is capable of getting points."

The U of A contingent includes 23, possibly 24 men and 15 women. Under Canada West regulations each men's team is allowed to enter 24 competitors while women are allowed 16 entries. The Bears are presently deciding on the last member of their squad (possibly Edmonton Eskimos' punter Hank Ilesic, who could compete in the shot-put). The Pandas' squad is set at one under the limit.

Unlike other years the Canada West meet will not include open competition. With the inclusion of Calgary in track and field this year organizers do not see the necessity of padding events with 'open' entrants. Instead, an open meet will occupy the Saturday afternoon time slot at the Field House.

The Canada West will feature the male and female athletes of the meet in 1978; the U of A's Gerry Swan and Joanne Jones-Anderson of the University of Saskatchewan. Swan is a good bet to leap to double victories in the long and triple jumps, according to Simonyi, although in the latter event he may receive strong competition from Brent Fougner of the University of Victoria.

Other men who appear to have healthy shots at first place accolades include Peter Butler of Calgary, 1978 national interuniversity cross country champion and a member of the Canadian Commonwealth Games team (in the 1500 and 3000 metres); Calgary's Doug Wornell (also a member of the Commonwealth Games team) in the 800 metres; and UBC high jumper Dean Bock, who leaped seven feet (2.13 metres) two weeks ago.

All six Canada West schools will have competitors entered in the meet, although Lethbridge will have a minimum number and UBC, Victoria, and Calgary will bring near capacity contingents. As a result, Saskatchewan, always a power and always boasting a full squad, will provide the best competition for Alberta.

The meet begins Friday at 7 p.m. and Saturday at 6 p.m. The organizers promise plenty of excitement for spectators.

Swimmers prepared

Only three of the six Canada West universities have signified intentions to participate in week's swimming finals at UBC pool.

The host UBC team, led by international Wendy Hogg, will be joined by the U of A (contingent) and by Hogg's Golden Bears and Pandas.

Thirteen men and 11 women from the U of A will travel to Vancouver for the three day meet, scheduled to begin Thursday morning.

Coach Hogg expects that the men will do "fairly well" as long as they are able to avoid underestimating the opposition, a common mistake of younger athletes. The women, though their competition will be stronger than the men's, are expected to win a couple of the distance events; the UBC team is expected to have stronger sprinters, though.

None of the U of A divers will make the trip to B.C. because of lack of experience. Hogg expects that the lack of divers qualifying for the CIAU Nationals in Montreal the following weekend will hurt Alberta's chances for a higher rating.

One possible and one confirmed.

Those are the predictions of the U of A men's and women's gymnastics coaches for this weekend's Canada West gymnastics championships Saturday and Sunday in the Varsity Gym.

The Bears coach, Francis Tally, is hoping his squad can break the three-year stranglehold the Calgary Dinosaurs have on the Canada West title.

"Our guys are ready to beat them," Tally said before Monday's practice. "If we can perform like we're capable of performing, the Canada West title might be in Edmonton this year. One guy we are really depending on is Alfred Segger, who's our best man on high-bar. If he gets a good score, that could make the difference."

Besides representation from Calgary, there will be a team from UBC, a single gymnast from Victoria and a contingent from University of Winnipeg, competing on an exhibition basis.

According to Panda coach Sandy O'Brien, the women's team are shoo-ins for a repeat of their Canada West championship and are in good shape to defend their national title.

"We have so much depth it's incredible," says Sandy. "Most teams have two or three top-flight gymnasts. We're so much better because we have six and sometimes even seven who are really good."

Pandas have already qualified six gymnasts for the national tournament, held this year in Vancouver. The list includes veterans Peggy Bureaud, Sandra Farley, Trish McMillan, Janice Dever, and rookies Kathy Mattock and Carol Brinkhurst.

Times for the meet are Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday afternoon at 1:30.

Hockey Bears have a problem

How do you keep a team together?

The answer to that problem is what Golden Bears hockey coach Clare Drake will show his players as a psychologist as much as his renowned coaching expertise.

Drake's Bears face one of their three remaining hurdles this weekend when they meet the lowly Saskatchewan Huskies.

Mired in the bottom of the Canada West league, the Huskies have proven to be tough if not watched closely.

As Coach Drake said, "if you don't check them closely, they're dangerous." Backing up this statement was the Huskies 5-3 victory over the Calgary Dinosaurs Friday evening. However, the Dinosaurs came back Saturday night and dropped the Huskies 9-3 to even the score.

Bears' starts John Devaney, Chris Helland, and Ted Poplawski, received Drake's special commendations for excellent effort after the weekend games, which the Bears took 8-0 and 8-4 over the UBC Thunderbirds. "This was the team's best all around effort of the year," said Drake.

Wrestling

It's amazing what a difference a week makes in the world of intercollegiate sports.

This time last week, Golden Bears wrestling coach John Barry was in the dumps over injuries to two of his top wrestlers. This week, just days before the Canada West finals at the U of Saskatchewan, Barry's wrestlers are improving and so is his attitude.

Now that Bears mainstay Mark Yurick's foot is beginning to heal and 109 pound Dave Langill's separated rib is starting to show improvement, Barry can afford to relax somewhat concerning the upcoming finals.

He expects that the championship honors will come

Basketball

Reich out for season

by John Younie

A freak accident suffered in Monday's practice has put basketball Bear Dave Reich in hibernation for the rest of the season. Reich was watching his teammates play a game of volleyball following practice when he leaned on the wall with his left hand, dislocating the elbow. Dave was able to pop the bone in immediately but the injury, added to the dislocation of the same elbow during a Christmas tournament has spelled the end of the season for him.

Other than that, Garry Smith's Bears are in reasonably healthy shape for their weekend doubleheader with the last-place (1-15) Saskatchewan Huskies. The prairie squad has run into some rotten luck this season, losing many games in the last minute.

The Bears 'magic number' for clinching a playoff spot is one. An Alberta win or a loss by third place Calgary Dinosaurs will give Bears the dubious honour of taking on first-place UVic Vikings in Victoria.

League statistics released this week show Pat Rooney in second place in the scoring derby with a 17.6 per game average. Jim Bonin is seventh with a 13.7 average.

The Basketball Pandas' job of clinching a playoff spot will be more difficult. Debbie Shogan's team is in third place, one game behind Victoria Vikettes. If Pandas can sweep their series this Friday and Saturday against the Huskiettes from Saskatoon, and Victoria loses one of two games to first-place Calgary Dinnies, Alberta is in.

League statistics released show three Pandas in the top ten of the scoring race. Trix Kannekans is third with a 15.5 average, Faith Rostad is sixth with a 13.6 average and Sherry Stevenson holds down eighth spot with a 12.5 average.

Pandas made it into the national rankings released earlier this week. Alberta holds down ninth spot on the ten-team list. Laurentian is still number one.

The Pandas play at 6:45 p.m. Friday night, followed by the Bears. Saturday Pandas play at 1:30 p.m., followed by the Bears (at 3:30 p.m.). All games are in the main gym.

Outward Bound THE WILDERNESS CLASSROOM

What is Outward Bound?
Outward Bound is a real life adventure. It is ordinary people doing extraordinary things, things that only dream about. It's an experience concentrated living which lasts three or four weeks, but can affect you for the rest of your life.

Outward Bound is the accomplishment you feel relaxing on top of your mountain after working so hard to get there. It's the wonder of nosing your canoe into a shimmering lake after the longest portage you've ever imagined, bringing your kayak to rest at the end of the wildest stretch of white water you've ever seen.

Outward Bound is the joy of sharing and helping, and of receiving help yourself. It's experiencing the silence of wild places and sleeping under the stars. It's learning to rely on your own mind and body, muscles and wits, learning to trust and respect others, and accepting responsibility yourself. It is a unique educational experience which leads to new understanding of yourself, your strengths and limitations. You discover that most of your limits are self-imposed.

Outward Bound is the simplicity of living with the minimum of equipment in wild country. It is the discovery of inner strengths achieved by extending personal limits. It is the joy of finding new levels of communication with others. Outward Bound is the chance to find out who YOU really are.

Outward Bound... an international educational movement with over 20 schools on 5 continents. The program includes mountaineering, kayaking, mountain rescue and extended mountain expeditions. 1979 Summer Courses begin April 30th.
